College for Lifelong Learning: Broaden your horizon

THE ZEGU College for Lifelong Learning (CLL) – established just under a year ago – continues to grow from strength-to-strength with students enrolling for 'in-demand' short courses.

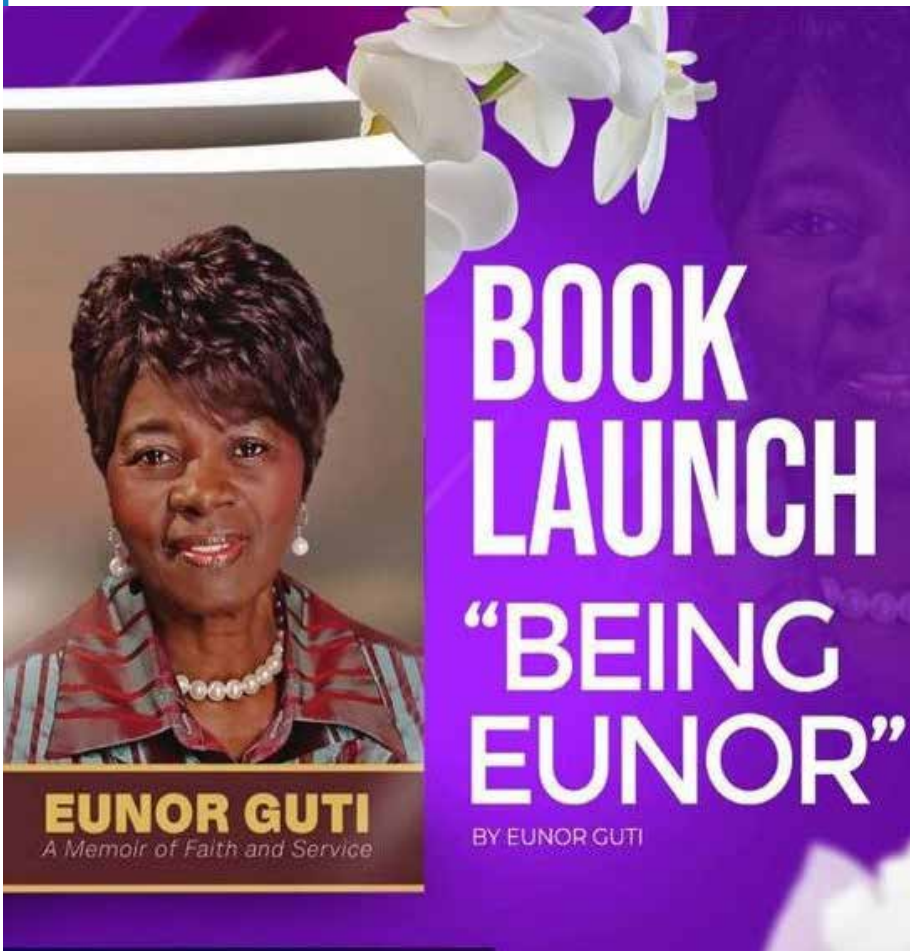

The (CLL) presents unique courses not just for school leavers, but also for professionals and employees in various industries, and for those in search of new expertise to enhance their skills.

Courses on offer include Certificates and Diplomas, which bodes well with the Government's call for Higher and Tertiary Education institutions to adapt Education 5.0, which promotes Innovation, Research and Industrialisation.

One of the most interesting aspects on enrolling for a Certificate is that upon successful completion of the programme or course, one can proceed to do a Diploma or Pre-Degreed Diploma that will allow acceptance into some of ZEGU's Degree programmes, respectively.

Enroll this January 2024 and enhance your professional career.

Yet another milestone...

ZEGU founding member and ZAOGA FIF International Archbishop, Dr Eunor Guti continues to lead from the front, as she has published her autobiography, "Being Eunor: A Memoir of Faith and Service".

Addressing Journalists during a press briefing in Harare, recently, Dr Guti chastised drug peddlers, while also encouraging parents to establish relations with their children as a way of dealing with this vice that has greatly affected the youths of the nation.

ZEGU is proud to be associated with Dr Guti, as a co-founder of the institution and also most importantly as an Alumni.

Her teachings will continue to shape the institution, guiding it towards where it's supposed to be as a leading Pentecostal Christian University. #MyvarsityMypride#pr@zegu.ac.zw

Manica visit:informative, enlightening

THE ZEGU Supply Chain Management, Level 4.2, Block Release class (2024) gained “valuable insight and knowledge” during an educational tour at leading cargo and freight concern, Manica, in Rugare, Harare.

Class representative Tichaona Striker Machuwaire expressed satisfaction at the tour, saying students got a “practical view” of the multimodal transportation at Manica.

“We saw how the containerised cargo is transported to the depot by rail or road and how it is handled, stored, and inspected. We also visited their (Manica) warehouses and learned about methods of storage and compartmentalization of products,” said Machuwaire.

ZEGU prioritises educational trips for its students’ so as to expose them (students) to the industry, and this trip was no different as it was part of the Port of Management and Shipping (CPS424) module.

Machuwaire praised Manica Depot management and ZEGU for organising a very informative and enlightening tour that gave students a chance to see the real-world application of the concepts and theories taught in the lecture rooms.

“We are grateful to the University for organising this opportunity and to Mrs. MZL Antonio for guiding us throughout the trip. We also thank the Manica Depot management and staff for their hospitality and cooperation,” he added.

It is through similar education tours that ZEGU organises to enhance the student’s learning experience and career prospects.#MyvarsityMypride#pr@zegu.ac.zw

la crème monte toujours au Sommet

ZEGU students have long proven that 'cream always rises to the top', and the recent achievements of Lestencia Maurukira, a final year bachelor's degree in accounting student, who was honoured for her hard work with a gold medal at the Associated Newspapers of Zimbabwe upon completion of a year-long internship is living proof of the institution's standards.

Lestencia was head over heels expressing her joy during an interview with the ZEGU Public Relations team saying, "...this award recognizes one for being a hard worker and team player," she said.

The University, well known for churning out outstanding and quality leaders, flourishes through its Christian values which make it unique. Lestencia added: "ZEGU, as a Pentecostal institution, has instilled in me a level of discipline, which I can safely say helped me to get this award."

ZEGU student bags prestigious international accolade

Masters in Theology and Religion level 1.2 student Tears Conoro Garaneunga was recently awarded the prestigious Arrupe Jesuit University Model United Nations (AJUMUN) Best Paper (under World Health Organisation) after a careful and calculated presentation on access to medical care in Zimbabwe.

AJUMUN is a model United Nations Annual Conference where students are given tasks before the conference day, various countries to represent. One then researches and writes a position paper on critical issues that are particular to that country but under a broader United Nations theme. The issues are categorised and discussed separately under the various United Nations forums like WHO, UNHCR, WTO, and UNICEF.

The ZEGU student was assigned the task of being a delegate of Zimbabwe under the World Health Organisation (WHO) and was wrestling with the question: "Ensuring Equitable and Efficient Access to medical care during disease outbreaks in rural communities: A Case of Zimbabwe.

Students were asked to present their position papers in 5 minutes and then required to respond to questions and interrogations from all delegates present. According to Garaneunga, the accolade has ignited an inner need within himself to go the extra mile in ensuring that his contribution to humanity aids development.

"It (the award) is an inspiration, an eye opener, and a knock on the door demanding that I step out more and begin to contribute holistically to the well-being of humanity.

"It became clear to me that success is not success unless it impacts humanity positively... and I have the potential," he said.

However, Garaneunga paid tribute to ZEGU citing, "Diligence, boldness, knowledge acquisition, and values that I have learnt and experienced at ZEGU came to the fore and were my arsenal at this conference, and they indeed brought the success home," he added.

Over 28 countries were represented at the two (2) day conference which ran in mid-March at Arrupe Jesuit University, in Harare.

Zim Ambassadors at work

Youths implored to shun drugs

In its efforts to create a campus community that prioritizes the health and safety of all its members, the Zimbabwe Ezekiel Guti University (ZEGU) successfully held a Drug and Substance Abuse Campaign at the Bindura campus, where scores of students participated.

The multi-faceted campaign saw students marching across campus, while there was also a segment for sensitization, through guest speakers in the hope of equipping students with the knowledge and resources to make informed decisions about their health and well-being.

Counselling services and support groups for students struggling with addiction were availed, while confidentiality was prioritised to do away with unwanted cropping up of stigmatization.

A statement released by the University read, "By raising awareness and promoting open conversations about mental health and substance abuse, we aim to break down the stigma surrounding these issues and encourage students to seek help when needed.

"Our ultimate goal is to foster a campus environment where students feel supported and empowered to take control of their well-being. With the collective efforts of students, faculty, and staff, we can create a culture of wellness and resilience at the Zimbabwe Ezekiel Guti University.

"Together, we can make a positive impact on the lives of our community members and create a brighter future for all."

The Anti-Drug Campaign was hosted by ZEGU in partnership with SAYWHAT Zimbabwe and the Zimbabwe National Family Planning Council (ZNFPC). The Zimbabwe Civil Liberties and Drug Network reports that alcohol, drugs, and other substances abused in order of consumption is as follows: cannabis (67%); cough syrup (47%); crystal meth (36%); illegal alcohol (31%); pharmaceuticals (13%); crack (3%); cocaine powder (3%); and heroin (2%).

Shot in the arm for Zim Universities

ZEGU's ability to develop Quality Assessment Tools received a major boost as two (2) department chairpersons participated in the highly rated National Multiplication Training (NTM), a quality assurance workshop held at the Midlands State University (MSU), where 8 Universities were represented, recently.

ZEGU was represented by Gerry Mhlanga, a PHD student, who is also the Chairperson in the Department of Curriculum and Educational Philosophy, while Gift Manhimanzi, who holds qualifications in Mcom Applied, Accounting, Bcom Accounting, Diploma in Education, and is also a PHD student, is the Chairperson for the Department of Accounting, Finance and Human Capital Management, respectfully.

Training of University chairpersons, who are often dubbed "backbone of any university" will also assist in the formulation and implementation of quality assurance systems. The NTM – a quality assurance workshop for University chairpersons – is funded by the German Academic exchange service in partnership with MSU.
